United Press Telegram.

WELCH, W. Va., April 28.—Crazed with drink John Morris, a miner, killed two men, wounded two negroes and a negress, escaped from a mob which thirsted for his blood and met death himself by falling from the swiftly moving freight train which was carrying him across the Virginia boundary.

The shooting occurred Tuesday night at Shannon near here. He shot and killed Samuel Walker and Frank Hertis, both miners. A mob surrounded him but he broke through and struck the railroad tracks, eluding pursuit.

He shot John Logan, a negro whom he met along the track. Then he approached a negro sitting in the door of a shanty. He forced this negro to exchange shoes with him and then shot him in the arm to keep him from following him. Morris also shot a negress at the place.

Walking further he met William Lewis, white. He held Lewis up and robbed him of $7.

Morris then boarded a freight train headed for the Virginia boundary. Later his mangled body was found along the track. It is believed that while shifting his position he fell beneath the wheels.

Louis Paulhan Flies From London to Manchester in Twelve Hours

Paulhan World's Greatest Aviator Says White

United Press Telegram.

LONDON, April 28.—Paulhan is the world's greatest aviator and beside him I am a novice. Although I did not win I wish Paulhan good luck, was the declaration of Graham White, the English aviator, whom the former defeated last night winning the $50,000 prize offered by Lord Northcliffe for the first aeroplane flight from London to Manchester, a distance of 186 miles.

While I wish I won the prize I would have liked to have finished without a stop which the darkness and cold prevented. My admiration for White's flight is the highest, said Paulhan.

In France Louis Paulhan is the lion of the hour, and his flight is counted the greatest in history, although it is looked upon as less spectacular than Bleriot's channel flight. The Paris Aero Club is planning for Paulhan the greatest reception ever accorded a French sportsman.

New Public Road To Broad Ford Will Be Built

State Engineer F. P. Hallam is here today from Pittsburg inspecting the route of the new road to Broad Ford which is to be changed under the direction of the Connellsville township Road Supervisors. Hallam will look over the road with a view to securing State aid for the new road.

The new course will prove a safer and better driveway through the elimination of one steep hill and four small ones. It will also reduce the distance between here and Broad Ford by fully half a mile.

The idea is to start at the Frick stable on Nigger Hill and cut across in a straight line towards the river hill striking the present road again at Nicholas Barton's place. The new portion of the road will rise at the rate of three feet to the hundred from the stables to the river hill where it strikes the present road.

The long dangerous hill between these points which is to be abandoned has long been the terror of farmers and teamsters who have had to drive heavy loads over that road. With it eliminated the hauling will be much more satisfactory. State Engineer Hallam will consult with the Supervisors and others interested today.

Competition Is Stiffled By Railroads

FAYETTE GAS CO. SELLS TO STANDARD.

Holdings in West Virginia Pass to Big Corporation.

THE PLAN OF ROCKEFELLER

Concern Is To Supply Gas to Concerns With Franchises at Wholesale Price on Sliding Scale—Other Deals That Are Pending

That the Standard Oil Company plans to gain ownership to all the producing gas fields of the West Virginia territory now in the hands of smaller producing and distributing companies located in Pittsburg, produce the gas and then sell it at wholesale prices to franchise owning concerns in all cases those from whom it will purchase the fields is the belief now prevalent among the oil and gas men. The big Rockefeller corporation has already closed one deal with this in view, had another well under way, and it is stated preliminary negotiations are now going forward between the Standard and several other Pittsburg concerns with the same prospective end.

The effect will be to make the smaller companies distributors alone with all of them buying from the same source. Men competent to judge state this will be beneficial to the local concerns for the reason that a single company will operate the fields preventing one company interested in a large reserve tract parts of which are owned by several competitors entering the field and stripping it of the underlying fuel before the other concerns whose old wells are still producing satisfactorily are ready to tap the reserve but are compelled to drill the fields in order to get their share of the profit.

Experienced gas men state it is cheaper for a distributor to buy its supply at wholesale and market at retail than to stand the heavy producing expenses, while the Standard could easily and profitably bear by economizing the reserve. How great an amount of money the Standard is planning to spend in this direction is not even guessed at but it is believed great sums will be forthcoming to stockholders in the local companies or will be available to wipe out floating debts.

In line with the rumor and bearing it out to appreciable extent are the deals just closed with the Fayette County Gas Company and the negotiations now well under way and nearing completion with the Manufacturers Light & Heat Company. Stockholders of the Fayette company have held a meeting and ratified the sale of its oil and gas holdings in West Virginia to the Standard. A contract was made with the Standard for a supply of gas from these fields while the Fayette still holds its Pennsylvania properties. The contract is on a sliding scale covering a term of years but the basis of the contract is withheld and the selling price of the fields is also unknown though the amount is said to be highly satisfactory and will probably be turned over to stockholders as a cash dividend in a short time.

UNITED STATES STEEL.

Believed The Common Will Get at Least 7 Per Cent in Current Year.

NEW YORK, April 28.—(Special.) The impression in steel circles is that the common shareholders of the United States Steel Corporation will receive about 7 per cent. in the current year. Based on the March showing earnings in the current quarter should run between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000 which makes possible an extra dividend of 1 per cent. Earnings of $40,000,000 would mean close to 4½ per cent for the common. If 2¼ per cent should be paid on the common there would still remain 2¼ per cent, which could be used for new construction if the management deemed it wise to spend the money for this purpose.

STOKING APPARATUS TO BE TESTED AT TROTTER.

First Appliance of Kind to Be Installed in Region for Firing Boilers With Coke Ashes and It Promises to Revolutionize Boiler Firing Practice in the District.

Upon the special test to be made next Tuesday before officials from the yards works of the H. C. Frick Coke Company at the Trotter plant of that company of a battery of boilers there equipped with Parsons distributors to fire the furnaces with waste ashes from the coke yard hinges a great plan of conservation. If the new appliances and allied ones prove the claims of their owners the boilers of all the [illegible] of this immense company [illegible] will toward a hand [illegible] will [illegible] be equipped with these [illegible]. The tremendous saving of [illegible] the [illegible] an age of [illegible] to be [illegible] to one familiar with the conditions [illegible] of the [illegible] the coke works [illegible] to be considered. [illegible] the equipment [illegible] the Parsons [illegible] ejector which automatically [illegible] the ashes from the boiler pits. When the steam falls below a certain [illegible] a steam blower opens automatically and the ashes are distributed evenly over the furnace and when the steam again rises to its proper pressure the blower automatically closes. A small steam engine keeps the machine in motion and practically all the work to be attended to is keeping the water in the boiler from running low.

At present the ashes are shoveled by hand into a small chute and thus fed into the furnace. If the test is successful huge bins will be erected above the boilers and from these bins the ashes will be dumped direct into the smaller bins the ejector will feed them into the furnace and when the heating power of the ashes is exhausted the ejector will clean them out of the ash pits. The furnaces will need only an occasional tending, whereas, under the old style system it would keep a man busy firing the furnace and cleaning the ashes from the pit.

Chief Mechanical Engineer G. E. Hottinger, of Scottdale will be present in charge of the special test next Tuesday. The ashes will be weighed before they are put into the furnace and will again be weighed after having been burned, the water will be measured and the steam pressure carefully taken and comparisons made with steam pressure in boilers that are not fired by the distributor.

One ejector is already in operation at the Mt. Braddock plant of the Rainey interests and one is being installed at the Orient plant.

H. H. Swingle, the erecting engineer, says of the appliances: "I have no doubt that if this test proves its merits and meets with the approval of the Frick officials almost all the plants of the Frick system will be equipped with them in due time."

This ejector is manufactured by the Parsons Manufacturing Company of New York, the works being located in Elizabeth, N. J., and already 150 machines have been installed but this is their first introduction into the coke region and will without a doubt in time be installed at all the plants throughout the region owing to their cheapness in operation and their ability to burn coke ashes into a white hot fire which when they are fired by hand is most difficult. Erecting Engineer H. H. Swingle is in charge of this work aided by Assistant Engineer J. E. Tannon.

DISCRIMINATION WINS!!!

In every walk in life discrimination between the true and the false wins and enjoys success. In questions of form, of style and of values, whether financial, commercial or medicinal, the judgement of the men and women who select and appreciate and utilize the true and genuine product, proves most profitable and most satisfactory to themselves and to all who follow them.

Therefore, in connection with so important a subject as the physical well-being of the people, the most eminent physicians insist on full information as to the wholesome nature and truly beneficial character of the component parts of the remedies used and prescribed by them, and the wise manufacturer not only supplies them with the knowledge desired, but also combines for them in proper proportions the very substances most approved by them and omits every objectionable substance. The world-wide acceptance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna by physicians and the well-informed of the world, as the best of family laxatives, is due to the universal satisfaction which it has given for more than a quarter of a century and also to the fact that it is a remedy of known quality and known component parts and to the further fact that the California Fig Syrup Co. presents it to the world simply as the ideal strengthening personal laxative to cleanse and sweeten the system gently, yet effectually, and to dispel colds and headaches and to assist in overcoming constipation. To get its beneficial effects—always buy the original and genuine, for sale by all leading druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always plainly printed on the front of every package.

Equity Suit Developes From Building of Coke Plant

BY THE STANDARD COMPANY

Christian Echard Asks For Receiver and an Injunction to Restrain Paul Mauzy—Other Routine Court Matters.

UNIONTOWN, April 28—Christian Echard of Uniontown, has filed an equity suit demanding the appointment of a receiver for the Standard Development Company, an injunction restraining Paul Mauzy from interfering with the accounts in any way and also restraining him from transferring $6,000 worth of stock.

Echard in his statement filed Wednesday, declares that the Standard Development Company, composed of Wade H. Echard, Paul Mauzy and Christian Echard was formed for the purpose of building a coke plant of 37 ovens and turning the property over to the Franklin Coke Company at $60,000. In July, the company took in James S. Braddock of Mount Pleasant, who continues to be associated with the present company. Under the terms of the original agreement Wade H. Echard and Paul Mauzy were to sell $60,000 worth of stock in the Franklin Coke Company, the difference between this amount and the actual cost of the coke plant to be the profits of the Standard Development Company. The petitioner says the plant was completed and accepted by the Franklin Coke Company on March 18. Its cost was $46,000, leaving a profit of $14,000 for the Standard Development Company of which company Paul Mauzy is treasurer. He says Mauzy has all the books and accounts, and further alleges that Mauzy issued to himself $6,000 worth of Franklin stock without the consent of the other members of the company.

To right these alleged wrongs Echard asks for a receiver for the Standard Development Company and an injunction against Mauzy until a proper accounting can be had. The plaintiff's bill was filed by Attorney A. E. Jones, counsel for Echard.

The demurrer of the Somerset Trust Company to the suit of Col. J. M. Reid, was dismissed in court Wednesday. The company contended that it should not be included among the defendants in the action to prevent the distribution of $125,000 until further accounting is had. The date for the final hearing will be fixed later. Several days ago when the demurrer of defendant E. H. Reid was dismissed the case was continued until Wednesday, but now goes over until some future date.

Special to The Courier.

BERLIN, April 28.—Mahlon Reiman, C. W. Landis and Urias Reiman a trio of Brothersvalley township farmers returned home last evening from a trip to the State of Louisana where they were sightseeing with the intention of investing in some lands in that section of the country. The party, composed of 15 farmers from all sections of the county, left Somerset in a chartered car 10 days ago going direct to New Orleans. From there they went north into the State about 150 miles where they were escorted over a section of country very level and here and there a cabin and were shown a large irrigation plant from which the farmers draw their supply of water to irrigate their rice fields.

The party speaks in the highest terms of the treatment received at the hands of the people residing there and of the opportunities for young people who are thrifty and wide awake.

AN OBJECT LESSON TO COKE OPERATORS

The United States Steel Corporation is a trust which seems to have dealt fairly with the people and liberally with its workmen and yet to have been able out of its earnings to pay its regular interest and dividends to advance its common dividend to [illegible] and to practically squeeze the water out of its capitalization by charging off old values and paying up to its operating account much new construction and, it may be added, there was a battleship depth to the water in the original proposition.

The United States Steel Corporation has been able to do this, not by robbing the consumer through the Robber Tariff or in any other manner. At no time has the United States Steel Corporation enjoyed a monopoly of the iron and steel business. Its prices have always been competitive, and as much they have necessarily been as low or lower than the [illegible].

But by CONSOLIDATION AND CENTRALIZATION, by the ownership of its RAW MATERIALS and the DIRECT PROCESSES of manufacture from that stage to the finished product by the ELIMINATION OF MIDDLEMEN'S PROFITS and the NATURAL ECONOMIES OF COMBINATION it has been able to manufacture at the lowest cost to sell in the open market in successful competition with [illegible] producers and at MINIMUM PRICES to reap MAXIMUM PROFITS.

The example of the United States Steel Corporation is an object lesson which merits the careful consideration of some Connellsville coke operators.

THE SOLEMN DUTY OF OUR CENSUS ENUMERATORS

The census enumerators are engaged in [illegible] with industry but the horrible [illegible] dawns on the minds of our public spirited and active [illegible] enterprising citizens of ambitious communities that the enumerators are not enumerating with that care which should characterize their efforts. This [illegible] expression in verse in the columns of the State Journal of [illegible] as follows:

[illegible]

We pass the caution down to the census enumerators of Greater Connellsville. We know that we are the center of the coke region and the chief town in Fayette county and we rely with confidence on the energy and thrift, the personal ambition and the public spirit of the enumerators to do their work thoroughly to the end that our claims may be verified and that it may be known by an actual count that Connellsville is regular the chief and central town of Fayette county, geologically and geographically, commercially and carbonically, ingeniously and actually, and that [illegible] claims are [illegible] pretensions.

We do not insist upon the Connellsville enumerators listing the dogs and cats, even if one of them has a real name, but we hope that none of the babies will be allowed to go un-enrolled in the Book of the People.

[illegible]

ARE THE LICENSE RULES BECOMING OBSOLETE?

While it does seem that some of the Fayette county license court rules have become rather obsolete, it will hardly be safe for the holders of licenses to assume that the rules or any considerable portion of them are no longer in force.

The license court rules are for the most part founded in wisdom and justice but some of them have always been open to suspicion, for example the dictum that licensees shall not hold office or be active in politics.

It is hardly fair for the court to ask a citizen to give up as the price of a license his political heritage, and there is certainly no warrant of law for the demand. In some cases it has had a salutary effect, in others its operation has been a detriment to the community.

The [illegible] tion to liquor men in politics though not openly stated was [illegible] through money and whisky they [illegible] and an undesirable [illegible] at elections. If this be the proper remedy would seem to [illegible] licenses to such persons [illegible] license law is strict concerning character.

On the other hand many licensees are [illegible] property owners and are entitled [illegible] consideration of equity to [illegible] in the affairs of [illegible] part [illegible] local government. As a [illegible] they are intelligent and capable of [illegible] such station with credit to themselves and profit to the community. If their capacity is recognized by the people, the people should be allowed to determine for themselves without the consent of the court whether or not they want liquor men for officials.

In short, the fact that a man holds a license should be an evidence of good citizenship. If he is not a good citizen, if he is unfitted for the duties of citizenship he is unfit to hold a license, and the courts have done wrong to grant him one.

Somerset farmers are thinking of buying [illegible]. They have been living among the hills so long that level land probably looks good to them.

The West Penn's policy of expansion has not been departed from.

New York can't lose Roosevelt any more than the country can. When Napoleon [illegible].

The Insurgents in Congress evince a disposition to [illegible] the lines of [illegible] the [illegible] before [illegible] out [illegible] demitted positions [illegible].

Familiarity breeds contempt, especially [illegible] we get [illegible] familiar with other [illegible].

Dunbar township schools beat most others at the close.

Street obstructions are costly things for boroughs and the patrolmen should be vigilant in preventing contractors from providing them.

The mining strike in the Greensburg district has reached the injunction stage. When a strike reaches this point it is always well for strikers and sympathizers to inform themselves concerning the law and keep well within its bounds.

Postmaster Lyons of Greensburg attends to his business so well that the people and the government are glad to keep him on the job. To clinch a public office don't lean on the office, make it lean on you.

The able teaching staff is composed of Prof. H. K. Rhodes Principal and Miss Anna Duncan and Miss Ida Hi kerkmell, assistants.

Doctors Dare Digestion.

What do you think of this? Dyspeptics take heart, those who croak at of the high cost of living see how much grub there is still left in the world, those who fear the bogy of seeing much nourishment when the shades of night have fallen be brave. This is what 15 doctors of the Scottdale Physicians' Round Table sat down to and cleaned up at their third annual banquet held at the New Scottdale House. These are the things they had to eat, put in fine print to save space:

Blue Points on Half Shell
Celery Queen Olives Sliced Tomatoes
Consomme Royal
Fillet of Sole Tartar Sauce
Claret Punch

Their Golden Wedding Day.

John Hurst and Euphamia Parker were married at Reagantown 50 years ago and celebrated the half century of happy married life at their home in the Hurst apartments with about 45 members of the family and a few intimate friends. After their marriage the couple lived a greater part of their lives on a farm near Summit mines, and saw the inauguration and rise of the Connellsville region and the industrial growth of the Morgan valley. They have spent the last several years in Scottdale. Among those present were their children, William P. Hurst, Harry B. Hurst, James B. Hurst, Edward Hurst, and Mrs. G. Frank Kelly and Mrs. C. L. Stoner. A big dinner was a feature of the day.

Poultry Meeting Tonight.

The Scottdale Poultry and Pet Live Stock Association will meet in the borough building tonight, to consider the by-laws of the organization, and it is desirable that every member be present.

Tag Day Next Week.

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. M. B. Porter it was decided that the annual tag day for the benefit of Rest Cottage will be held next Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. This will be the first time that tag day was ever held here.

Beats the Record.

Thomas H. Rutherford, the agent of The Courier, says that the advance sale for "Graustark" tonight beats the season's record.

Postal Card Shower.

Friends arranged a postal card shower for Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kelly of the Central Hotel who are at the Great Northern Hotel, Hot Springs, Arkansas, and nearly a hundred cards went out there yesterday, and are being followed up by more today.

CHANGING PLANS

For Visit of Pittsburg Trade Excursionists to Connellsville.

On account of a change in the program and itinerary of the tenth trade extension tour of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburg, which reaches here Friday, May 27, a revision of the schedule is being made. This work is being done by Harry W. Neely, chairman; Sam F. Sipe, vice chairman of the trade extension committee, and Ira S. Bassett, traffic manager. On Thursday, May 26, the Pittsburgers will run their train, which will be the first one, over the new Bedford and Hollidaysburg railroad better known as the Midland. This is a new connecting line, much shorter, between Altoona and Cumberland.

"We look forward to the greatest trip we have ever taken," says Vice Chairman Sipe. "All the towns we propose to visit and those through which we pass, have live and progressive merchants. From all points along the itinerary come reports that our friends, old and new, will be glad to see us. Of course, it goes without saying that we shall be delighted to take advantage of the opportunity. There will be more business men of the manufacturer, wholesale and jobber variety on the coming trip than on any preceding one. We are going through a section of the country abounding in the most magnificent scenery in the world. The latter part of May this will be at its best. Everything looks promising."

IT FOLLOWS SERIOUS RIOTINGS

Mrs. Hammer Gets a Divorce—Fulton Lyon Appointed Postmaster For Fourth Term—Riot at Claridge. News From County Seat.

Special to The Courier.

GREENSBURG, April 28.—There has been much of interest in the doings of the court in the last few hours, among the events being the settlement of a sensational divorce suit and the handing down of a writ of injunction against the striking miners who have been active in the district.

Judge Lucien W. Doty last night handed down a writ of injunction directed against the United Mine Workers of America, its officers and all other persons who have been in concert with them in marching to the several coal works owned by the Keystone Coal & Coke Company. The petitioners in the injunction alleged that riotous demonstrations had been going on on the part of the marchers, picketing, intimidation, destruction of property and assaults by the strikers upon men now working. Two occasions were specified, one at Salemville, when an all night march from Export brought the strikers to the mines just as the men were going to work about [illegible] o'clock in the morning. The injunction is [illegible] sweeping one.

Along with the granting of the injunction comes news of a serious riot at Claridge, north of Manor, last night, when two foreigners were injured. The [illegible] of a band of over [illegible] who attacked two workmen employed at those mines, the pumper and wireman. The crowd handled these two roughly and the deputy sheriffs stationed there rushed to the men's rescue, being [illegible] by a volley of stones to which the officers replied with their revolvers, shooting one striker in the [illegible] and another in the ankle.

It took the jury an all-night session to decide the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Kate L. Hammer against her husband Dr. W. J. Hammer in awarding Mrs. Hammer her divorce.

In the [illegible] judgment suit of Walden [illegible] Smith et al. the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiffs for $1,[illegible] without interest.

It is Postmaster R. A. Fulton Lyon for the fourth time. President Taft having sent the appointment to the Senate for confirmation. Samuel Forney, postmaster in Greensburg's younger days, is the only postmaster to have secured [illegible] three terms.

The will of Ann [illegible] Mcmoor of Salem township [illegible] estate of $[illegible] to her daughter Mrs. Mcmoor. [illegible] Pell Smith asks that [illegible] may give [illegible] before a master to secure a divorce from her husband, Edwin F. Smith.

REAL INDIAN PRIEST

And Medicine Man Coming With 101 Ranch Show

A real Indian priest and medicine man is coming with the 101 Ranch Wild West on next Thursday. He is Swift Deer, bowed with weight of 78 years and the grim responsibilities of his profession.

While the red men are naturally skillful in curing simple ailments and [illegible] errors of a certain kind there are many more [illegible] diseases which they do not at all comprehend and for which they have no medical treatment. Such diseases they believe to be caused by evil spirits which must be driven away by the dream power of the doctor.

Swift Deer's treatment consists of burning sweet-smelling vegetation to purify the air, of singing and praying to invoke the help of the power, or rattling instruments and making alarming sounds to frighten away the evil spirits, and of sucking and brushing off the skin of the patient to remove the mechanical cause of the malady. Usually, the cowboys affirm, the victim dies.

"I should say nothing as to a strong showing in any case. I should only say that if war came legitimately—not otherwise—I should back it with all my might. I feel the same in regard to war with England."

"With England? What chance would we have with so powerful a nation as that?"

"There is a God of Battles," said John Calhoun.

The chin of James K. Polk of Tennessee sank down into his stock. His staring eyes went half shut. At last he spoke, tentatively, as was always his way until he got the drift of things.

"Well, now, perhaps in the case of England that is good politics," he began. "It is very possible that the people hate England as much as they do Mexico. Do you not think so?"

"I think they fear her more."

"But I was only thinking of the popular imagination!"

"You are always thinking of the popular imagination, Jim. You have been thinking of that for some time in Tennessee. All that outcry about the whole of Oregon is ill-timed today."

"'Fifty-Four Forty or Fight;' that sounds well!" exclaimed Polk; "eh?"

"Trippingly on the tongue, yes!" said John Calhoun. "But how would it sound to the tune of cannon fire? How would it look written in the smoke of musketry?"

"It might not come to that," said Polk, shifting in his seat. "I was thinking of it only as a rallying cry for the campaign. Dash me—I beg pardon—" he looked round to see if there were any Methodists present—"but I believe I could go into the convention with that war cry behind me and sweep the boards of all opposition!"

"And afterwards?"

"But England may back down," argued Mr. Polk. "A strong showing in the southwest and northwest might do wonders for us."

"But what would be behind that strong showing, Mr. Polk?" demanded John Calhoun. "We would win the combat with Mexico, of course, if that iniquitous measure should take the form of war. But not Oregon—we might as well or better fight in Africa than Oregon. It is not yet time. In God's name, Jim Polk, be careful of what you do! Cease that cry of taking all of Oregon. You will plunge this country not into one war, but two. Wait! Only wait, and we will own all this continent to the Saskatchewan—or even farther north."

"Well," said the other, "have you not said there is a God of Battles?"

"The Lord God of Hosts, yes!" half screamed old John Calhoun; "yes, the God of Battles for nations, for principles but not for parties! For the principle of democracy, Jim Polk, yes, yes; but for the Democratic party, or the Whig party, or for any demagogue who tries to lead either, no, no!"

The florid face of Polk went livid. "Sir," said he, reaching for his hat, "at least I have learned what I came to learn. I know how you will appear on the floor of the convention. Sir, you will divide this party hopelessly. You are a traitor to the Democratic party; I charge it to your face, here and now. I came to ask of you your support, and find you only talking of principles! Sir, tell me, what have principles to do with elections?"

John Calhoun looked at him for one long instant. He looked down then at his own thin, bloodless hands, his wasted limbs. Then he turned slowly and rested his arms on the table, his face resting in his hands. "My God!" I heard him groan.

To see my chief abused was a thing not in my nature to endure. I forgot myself. I committed an act whose results pursued me for many a year.

"Mr. Polk, sir," said I, rising and facing him, "damn you, sir, you are not fit to untie Mr. Calhoun's shoe! I will not see you offer him one word of insult. Quarrel with me if you like! You will gain no votes here now in any case, that is sure!"

Utterly horrified at this, Mr. Polk fumbled with his hat and cane, and, very red in the face, bowed himself out, still mumbling. Mr. Calhoun rising and bowing his adieux.

My chief dropped into his chair again. For a moment he looked at me directly. "Nick," said he at length slowly, "you have divided the Democratic party. You split that party, right then and there."

"Never!" I protested; "but if I did, 'twas ready enough for the division. Let it split then, or any party like it, if that is what must hold it together! I will not stay in this work, Mr. Calhoun, and hear you villified. Platforms!"

"Platforms!" echoed my chief. His white hand dropped on the table as he still sat looking at me. "But he will get you some time, Nicholas!" he smiled. "Jim Polk will not forget."

"Let him come at me as he likes!" I fumed.

At last, seeing me so wrought up, Mr. Calhoun rose, and smiling, shook me heartily by the hand.

"Of course this had to come one time or another," said he. "The split was in the wood in their proposed platform of bluff and insincerity. 'What do the people say?' asks Jim Polk. 'What do they think?' asks John Calhoun. And being now, in God's providence, chosen to do some thinking for them, I have thought."

He turned to the table and took up a long, folded document, which I saw was done in his cramped hand and with many interlineations. "Copy this out fair for me to-night, Nicholas," said he. "This is our answer to the Aberdeen note. You have already learned its tenor, the time we met Mr. Pakenham with Mr. Tyler at the White House."

I grinned. "Shall we not take it across direct to Mr. Blair for publication in his Globe?"

Mr. Calhoun smiled rather bitterly at this jest. The hostility of Blair to the Tyler administration was a fact rather more than well known.

"'Twill all get into Mr. Polk's newspaper fast enough," commented he at last. "He gets all the news of the Mexican ministry!"

"Ah, you think he cultivates the Dona Lucrezia, rather than adores her!"

"I know it! One-third of Jim Polk may be human, but the other two-thirds is politician. He will flatter that lady into confidences. She is well nigh distracted at best, these days, what with the fickleness of her husband and the yet harder abandonment by her old admirer, Pakenham; so Polk will cajole her into disclosures, never fear. In return, when the time comes, he will send an army of occupation into her country! And all the while, on the one side and the other, he will appear to the public as a moral and lofty-minded man."

"If we temporarily lack the Baronoss von Rux to add zest to our game" I hazarded, "we still have the Dona Lucrezia and her little jealousies."

"We Still Have the Dona Lucrezia and Her Little Jealousies."

Calhoun turned quickly upon me with a sharp glance, as though seized by some sudden thought. "By the Lord Harry! boy, you give me an idea. Wait, now, for a moment. I'll you go on with your copying there, and excuse me for a while."

An instant later he passed from the room, his tall figure bent, his hands clasped behind his back, and his face wrinkled in a frown, as was his wont when occupied with some problem.

CHAPTER XX.

The Lady from Mexico.

As soon as women are ours, we are no longer theirs.—Montaigne.

After a time my chief re-entered the office room and bent over me at my table. I put before him the draft of the document which he had given me for clerical care.

"So," he said, "'tis ready—our declaration. I wonder what may come of that little paper!"

So now, till far towards dawn of the next day, we sat and talked. I put before him full details of my doings across the border. He sat silent, his eye betimes wandering, as though absorbed, again fixed on me, keen and glittering.

"So! So!" he mused at length, when I had finished, "England has started a land party for Oregon! Can they get across next fall, think you?"

"Hardly possible, sir," said I. "They could not go so swiftly as the special fur packers. Winter would catch them this side of the Rockies. It will be a year before they can reach Oregon."

"Time for a new president and a new policy," mused he.

"The grass is just beginning to sprout on the plains, Mr. Calhoun," I began eagerly.

"Yes," he nodded. "God! if I were only young!"

"I am young, Mr. Calhoun," said I. "Send me!"

"Would you go?" he asked suddenly.

"I was going in any case."

"Why, how do you mean?" he demanded.

I felt the blood come to my face. "'Tis all over between Miss Elizabeth Churchill and myself," said I, as calmly as I might.

"Tut! tut! a child's quarrel," he went on, "a child's quarrel! 'Twill all mend in time."

"Not by act of mine, then," said I hotly.

Again abstracted, he seemed not wholly to hear me.

I will tell you, Nicholas," said he at last, wheeling swiftly upon me. "Start next week! An army of settlers starts now for a leader along the Missouri. Organize them; lead them out! Give them enthusiasm! Tell them what Oregon is! You may serve alike our party and our nation. You cannot measure the consequences of prompt action sometimes, done by a man who is resolved upon the right. A thousand things may hinge on this. A great future may hinge upon it."

"While you have been busy, I have not been idle," he continued. "I have here another little paper which I have roughly drafted." He handed me the document as he spoke.

"A treaty—with Texas!" I exclaimed.

"The first draft, yes. We have signed the memorandum. We await only one other signature."

"Of Van Zandt!"

"Yes. Now comes Mr. Nicholas Trist, with word of a certain woman to the effect that Mr. Van Zandt is playing also with England."

"And that woman also is playing with England."

Calhoun smiled enigmatically.

"But she has gone," said I, "who knows where? She, too, may have sailed for Oregon, for all we know."

He looked at me as though with a flash of inspiration. "That may be," said he; "it may very well be! That would cost us our hold over Pakenham. Neither would we have any chance left with her."

"How do you mean, Mr. Calhoun?" said I. "I do not understand you."

"Nicholas," said Mr. Calhoun, "that lady was much impressed with you." He regarded me calmly, contemplatively, appraisingly.

"I do not understand you," I reiterated.

THE SOISSON.

Howe's Pictures Tomorrow.

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival gives a wider angle to the mental lense of more people than any other attraction before the American public. It is a real force in the onward march of civilization. For it teaches one nation to look upon another from the human standpoint. It shows in an entirely new light the life and scenes in foreign lands which would remain foreign were it not for Mr. Howe's ever welcome visits. For the hurrying man of today who is too busy to go anywhere, it is the only satisfactory means of observing the world-at-large. Winter gayety at St. Moritz, Switzerland; logging in Italy; richly colored birds of the Hebrides and Scotland; army life in America; a Mohammedan religious festival in Delhi, India; a violent volcanic eruption in Java; and the various effects of music on wild animals are only a few of the features to be seen at the Soisson theatre tomorrow night.

"The Old Homestead."

There could be no more welcome announcement for the amusement loving public than the appearance here of "The Old Homestead" at the Soisson theatre Thursday night, May 5. The dear old pastoral play itself is by this time so familiar to everyone that any attempt to describe it would be supererogation. The mere mention of the names of Joshua Whitcomb, Cy Prime, Seth Perkins, Aunt Matilda and Rickety Ann, is sufficient to bring to mind all of those delightful rural characters and at the same time arise in the background the pictures of the old farm, the homestead in Swanzey, Grace Church on Broadway in New York city, and the aristocratic mansion of Henry Hopkins, the metropolitan merchant and millionaire. The company this season is practically the same as last, and the production said to be perfect in every detail.

Summer Stock Season.

On Monday, May 9, the summer stock season will be inaugurated at the Soisson theatre for an indefinite run. A company of select players has been secured with a repertoire of popular and royalty plays will be given. The Soisson will undergo renovation and many facilities will be installed to give much comfort to the patrons during the summer months. The management announces that popular prices will prevail—night 10, 20 and 25 cents; matinees 10 and 20 cents.

An Honest Doctor

remarked to his patient who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after his efforts had failed, "My dear Weber, I do not believe in patent medicine but I will say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine ever discovered for women. Continue to use it." This is another link in the long chain of evidence to prove the reliability of this standard medicine for women.

Actresses in Abbreviated Costume Forbidden to Show at Elizabeth.

Elizabeth, N. J., April 28.—Dr. Victor Mravlag, mayor of this city, at the head of a squad of police raided a local theater and prevented a dancer from appearing in an obnoxious dance.

The mayor reached the theater just as she was about to go upon the stage scantily clad, and in a few well chosen words told her that the people of Elizabeth had ideals of acting which the evolutions of the dancer did not fit. He ordered her not to go on with her dance and she didn't.

PAULHAN WINS EXCITING RACE.

Aviator Flies From London to Manchester.

GETS $50,000 FOR HIS FEAT

Immense Crowds Gather Along Path of Flight Across England—Darkness Compels Both Paulhan and Graham White, His Competitor, to Alight.

Manchester, April 28.—Louis Paulhan won early this morning the $50,000 prize offered by the Daily Mail for the first aviator who should fly from London to Manchester within twenty four hours with not more than two descents to the ground.

Paulhan arrived here at 5:32 having traversed the distance in 12 hours, 12 minutes, including the time lost by his stop.

It is reported that Graham White, his competitor, who started to complete the race at 2:10 this morning, had to descend at Polesworth, ten miles south of Litchfield. Later the report was confirmed that White descended at Polesworth.

Paulhan started from Litchfield at 4 o'clock this morning. White was then probably fifteen miles behind him.

England Aeroplane Mad.

London, April 28.—Half of England is in paroxysm of the same aeroplane fever which gripped France some time ago and which still prevails there in milder form.

It was only realized how acutely the English are affected when the bulk of the population along a line drawn from London to Manchester and in a wide area on either side of this line left their homes and business to stretch their necks skyward in attempts to get a glimpse of Graham White and Louis Paulhan in their air race between the two cities.

In every town and village en route were crowds of sightseers and trains from outlying parts brought thousands to swell their numbers. In many centers it appeared as though it were a public holiday.

White's preparations were made on the common at Worlwood Scrubbs and Paulhan's at the aero club's grounds at Hendon both outlying northwest suburbs. Paulhan started at 5:20 p. m.

White announced that he would not start before dawn, hoping conditions would then be improved. As soon as it was known that Paulhan had started White quickly changed his plans and started off in pursuit. Prior to his starting some of his advisers tried to dissuade him from making the attempt. The wind was ugly but White refused to listen to the advice.

Subsequently reports told of immense demonstrations of enthusiasm in the various towns and villages passed over. When Paulhan passed over Rugby he was at a height of nearly 1,000 feet and was going so strong that it seemed likely he would finish without making a stop, but prudence seems to have caused him to decide not to make the attempt.

Darkness was falling and, although it would have been easy to follow the landmarks at night a descent might have been hazardous. However, Paulhan as he said afterward, was more than half frozen, and after his long day's work fixing the machine he had enough.

He resumed flight again in early morning and covered the last few miles to Manchester within the prescribed time limit.

"MICHIGAN ASSASSIN."

Stanley Ketchel Fought Six-Round Draw With Langford Last Night.

WILL HAVE TO FIGHT AGAIN

Ketchel and Langford Go Six Rounds For a Draw.

Philadelphia, April 28.—Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford will have to fight again to settle the question of supremacy. They met in a hard six-round bout at the National Athletic club in this city last night and were both on their feet able to continue with plenty of strength and aggressiveness when the battle ended with no decision by the referee.

No knockdowns were scored in spite of the terrific hitting power of both men. Langford showed a superior knowledge of boxing and scientific fighting, but Ketchel evened up the score by terrific punching.

It was the first meeting between Ketchel and Langford.

LAST PERFORMANCE OF THE ELKS' SHOW

Fine House Witnessed Minstrels—Was Better Than on The Opening Night.

The closing performance of the Elks' Minstrel was given last evening. It was even more successful than the opening show the night previous. How fickle are the audiences, though. Although Dave Girard and his son, Willie, were laden down with flowers, it was Doc Buttermore's evening, his "Black Salome" proving the song hit of the evening. Not that Dave's "Come After Breakfast" wasn't just as good as the night before, but last night Doc's song looked mighty good to the people out front.

The performance was even better than on the first night and the audience larger. W. J. Gobright performed in great style, especially in the specialty act with Doc Buttermore. The other performers were as good or better than the evening previous.

Sleuth's Trial Postponed.

Huntington, W. Va., April 28.—The trial of Albert Z. Feltz, head of the Baldwin detective agency, in the mining district, charged with robbing Paymaster Wicks, was called at Fayetteville and postponed on account of the absence of three state witnesses.

Stirring Days in Suits

Ladies', Misses' and Juniors Garments Move at a Lively Pace.

Scores selected their Spring Suits last week---just what they wanted and at quite a saving---and this week's news is a repetition of the same story. The "why" of this successful sale is evident to all who have seen our stock. There seems to be a general feeling of surprise at the comprehensiveness of the styles and models, and much favorable comment is heard on the line of "out sizes" in models specially designed for stout women. At this time last year Easter had scarcely passed, and the fact that this is a mid-season reduction makes it very attractive from an economic point of view. We quote the prices again. Not a suit reserved.
